

Alina Wunderlin

This season, Alina makes her house debut at Volksoper Wien, Oper Dortmund and Komische Oper Berlin as Queen of the Night. A concert with Orchestra da Camera di Perugia marks the soprano's debut in Italy and in December the singer returns to Staatstheater Braunschweig, again as Queen of the Night. A recording with songs by Brahms is planned for October. In January, Alina performs Carmina Burana with Thessaloniki State Symphony Orchestra in Greece, and in May with Münchner Symphoniker at Isarphilharmonie.

Highlights of last season include Alina's debut as Zerbinetta in Salzburg, her debut with Belgrade Philharmonic Orchestra and Glière's "Concerto for Coloratura Soprano", Queen of the Night at Salzburger Landestheater and Staatstheater Braunschweig, Carmina Burana with Münchner Symphoniker and Tonhalle-Orchester Zürich, her debut with Orchestre des Champs-Élysées in France, and a CD-recording for NAXOS.

Alina was a member of the ensemble at Staatstheater Braunschweig in 2020/21 and 2021/22, singing Queen of the Night, Oberto and one of the two main roles in Sidney Corbett's contemporary opera "Das Große Heft". She guested at Salzburger Landestheater and performed with Beethoven Orchester Bonn. Her debut with Tokyo Symphony Orchestra in Japan had to be cancelled due to the country's Covid regulations, as well as her role debut as Blonde in Cologne.

From 2018 to 2020, Alina was a member of the International Opera Studio Cologne.

Alina has worked with conductors like Philippe Herreweghe, Paavo Järvi, Christoph Gedschold and Gabriel Feltz, among others, as well as with directors such as Lydia Steier, Ben Baur, Michael Hampe, Christiane Lutz and Alexandra Liedtke.

Alina held scholarships from Live-Music-Now Yehudi Menuhin Rhein-Neckar, the Richard-Wagner-Verband Heidelberg and the Academy of the International Händel Festival Karlsruhe.

Alina was a laureate at the 2017 Paula-Salomon-Lindberg-Competition and in summer 2018 she won a special prize for opera at the Concours International de Chant Marmande, France.
